

Cermak Dead, Victim of Bullet Fired at President Roosevelt

Chicago Mayor Was Shot February 15 By Giuseppe Zangara, Who Tried to Kill President-elect Roosevelt at a Public Reception in Miami—Zangara Will Be Tried Immediately—Body Will Be Shipped to Chicago Today.

Miami, Fla., March 6 (AP).—Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, the victim of a bullet Giuseppe Zangara fired February 15 in an attempt to assassinate President Roosevelt, died in Jackson Memorial Hospital here today at 6:57 a. m., eastern standard time.

Death followed a series of complications against which the Chicago executive had rallied valiantly time after time.

The family and close friends were at the bedside. Mrs. Floyd Kenley, a daughter, was holding one of her father's hands when he died. Vivian Graham, a granddaughter, held the other. The saddened little group remained in the sun parlor of the mayor's room close to the death scene for several minutes.

"Oh, he wanted to live so much," Mrs. Richey Graham, a daughter said. And Mrs. Frank Jirka, another daughter, added, "He fought so hard. He didn't want to die."

Others at the bedside included Alderman Edward F. Kelly, South Park Commissioner at Chicago, who made the first announcement of the mayor's death; Dr. Frederick Rice, Dr. R. C. Woodward, superintendent of the hospital; Mrs. Walter Wright of Chicago; Mrs. Clara Beasley, secretary to the mayor; Joe Cermak, a brother; Mrs. John Kallal, sister, and Dr. Frank Jirka.

Mayor Cermak had previously rallied after three chest pains in his condition. Colitis, threatened heart failure and pneumonia, beset him. He had begun to believe he would recover from the bullet wound.

Lapsed Into Coma
Physicians still were optimistic Saturday but that night Eugene appeared in the right lung, that grazed by Zangara's bullet, and he grew steadily weaker. A third blood transfusion was performed yesterday in an attempt to save his life and an attempt to check the Zangara wound was made but the mayor did not respond. He lapsed into a coma last night and shortly after midnight physicians said death was a matter of hours.

The mayor died peacefully. He never recovered from his coma. Father Sidney Morrison of St. Bartholomew's Catholic Church, Chicago, had been praying at Cermak's bed for a time before he died.

Meanwhile, another victim of Zangara's bullet lay critically ill in the same hospital. Mrs. Joe H. Gill, Miami, society woman whose abdominal wound has become infected.

State's Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne said early today that immediate indictment of Zangara, on first degree murder charge, will be sought. "The jury is in recess now," he said, "and as much as I regret to think of it, it is not a question of recalling them but how soon they can be recalled."

A call for assembly of the jury was begun at once. Dr. J. W. Snyder, one of the attending physicians, said the cause of Mayor Cermak's death was the "gunshot" wound in the right chest which he received at Zangara's hands.

After the family recovered from the first blow of the death, they left the hospital and went to the home of Dr. Jirka at Miami Beach.

Preparations were made to take Mayor Cermak's body to Chicago on a special train. The tentative arrangements were for the train to leave about 4 or 5 p. m. (E. S. T.) today.

Colitis appeared first to complicate Cermak's condition and as this began to clear up, the mayor's heart showed signs of failure. Then pulmonary troubles developed and hopes for his recovery waned. Glucose injections, sedatives, stimulants, blood transfusions and on oxygen tent all were used in the desperate attempt to save his life.

Mount Heart Stayed Death.
The mayor, growing steadily weaker, weathered the early crises almost by sheer power of a will to get well and a stout heart.

Mayor Cermak was shot the night of February 15 by Giuseppe Zangara, a naturalized Italian bricklayer, who tried to take the life of President-elect Roosevelt at a public reception in Bay Front Park. Each of the five bullets fired into the crowd around the Roosevelt car found a mark but none touched the President-elect as spectators deflected the assassin's aim by setting his arm.

The Chicago mayor was struck in the right side above the abdomen and the bullet, of .32 caliber, punctured the lower part of the right lung and came to rest against the spine.

Wild excitement prevailed as the shots rang out. Secret service men ordered the president-elect's car to move forward, but Mr. Roosevelt, ignoring his own danger, halted it, picked up the wounded mayor and hurried him to a hospital.

Even as physicians worked over Mayor Cermak, he smiled gamely.

Hitler's Victory May Cause Adjournment Of German Reichstag

National Socialist Landslide in Reichstag and Prussian Diet on Sunday Gave National Government Decisive Victory—Militant Government Expected.

Berlin, March 6 (AP).—That the Reichstag in all likelihood will adjourn for two years after a brief session was the opinion in government circles after the National Socialist landslide in the Reichstag and Prussian diet elections yesterday gave the National government a decisive majority.

The cabinet will meet Tuesday to set the date for the Reichstag convocation.

The electoral endorsement of the Hitler government's "Nationalistic Revolution" with its policy of suppressing Communists and Socialists leaves no doubt that the next few months will be devoted to wiping out the last vestiges of both democracy and communism.

Hitler's Nazis will comprise the largest group ever sent to a German parliament, the final tabulation giving them 288 seats in a Reichstag with 647. The Nationalist allies got 32 seats. They got 17,264,000 and 3,131,000 votes respectively of the 39,395,000 cast.

Complete Domination.
If the Communists are ruled out, as is expected, Chancellor Hitler will dominate the situation entirely, the Nazis thus obtaining clear majorities in both the Reichstag and the Prussian Diet. The Nazis and Nationalists won 43 and 9 per cent, respectively of the Diet seats.

In view of the sweeping Rightist victory, the trade unions, with a total of 7,000,000 workers and white collar employees under Socialism and Communist influence, face annihilation. They have been the backbone of the resistance to Hitler and it remains to be seen whether Hitler, like Mussolini, will attempt to create a substitute Fascist labor organization.

Another question is what attitude the Catholic Centerists and their allies, the Bavarian Populists, will take towards the government and what attitude the government will adopt towards them. They were the only large opposition element not campaigning under severe repressive measures.

Yast changes in officialdom, carrying the spirit of Hitlerism into every home and vitally affecting the nation's cultural, economic and social life, are most likely to be effected. If Hitler adheres to the program of the government, the foreign as well as domestic policy will be most militant.

Nazi Statement.
A claim that the election victory nullifies the Nazis to take over the government was put forth in a statement issued by Hitler's press agency, which said:

"The National Socialists demand full recognition from young Germany. A wave of national awakening, sweeping all classes, and before which Marxism is falling, is the achievement of the National Socialist movement. Thus only National Socialism can complete the job."

One of the first acts of the new Reichstag, Hermann Goering, minister without portfolio, said, will be to declare the old imperial black, white and red flag the national colors instead of the Republican black, red and gold.

Almost 50 per cent of the electorate voted yesterday as compared with 75 and 84 per cent in the November 6 and July 31 Reichstag elections last year. This was believed to be a world's suffrage record.

N. Y. C. Ulster County Treasurer J. H. Betts Society Banquet Held Explains Method for Paying of City Taxes

Half Dozen Kingston People Attended. Affairs Held at National Republican Club—Forty Were Present—Officers Chosen.

The annual dinner of the Ulster County Society in the City of New York will go down in the history of the society as one of the most successful affairs ever held. Unique in many respects, the dinner Saturday night was thoroughly enjoyed by the 40 persons who attended, mostly former Ulster county boys who are making good in the big city. There were only a half dozen Kingston members present. New Paltz sent seven to represent that old Dutch community and the balance of the attendance was from the metropolitan area.

A most excellent dinner was served on the tenth floor of the National Republican Club, 54 West 40th street, following a reception at which old friendships were renewed and good fellowship prevailed.

There was no dinner held by the society in 1932, the first year since its organization in 1916, that the members have failed to get together for the mid-winter affair. The resumption of this custom last Saturday evening, although attendance was small, indicated that the affair is looked forward to and thoroughly enjoyed by the former sons of Ulster as well as the present sons of the city who seek to keep in touch with the men who have gone to the city and made good.

Following the dinner a business meeting was held at which election of officers for the year was held. McDonald DeWitt, who described himself as a "hardy perennial" who could be depended upon to make the annual nominating speech, very ably presented the following names: William Winter, honorary president; Thomas C. Hornbeck, honorary vice-president; A. T. Clearwater, historian; Robert A. Davis, president; Rufus Cole Van Allen, vice-president; Holley R. Cantino, treasurer and Stanley O. Styles, secretary.

After Mr. DeWitt had so elaborately placed the above names in nomination there was nothing to do but direct the secretary to cast one ballot for the excellent set of officers and this was done on motion of Mr. J. Strong.

Mr. Winter Spoke.
The newly elected honorary president was then called upon to address the meeting. Mr. Winter stated that for 16 years he had been a member of the society and had served as honorary vice-president. Last year Martin Cantino had been the honorary president and had filled that office with distinction and ability. Mr. Winter stated that from Mr. Cantino he understood that the duties of the honorary president consisted of doing nothing and he promised to live up to the record of his predecessor in all respects and leave all work to the hard working secretary and other regular officers.

Tom Hornbeck, who succeeded Mr. Winter as honorary vice-president, expressed his surprise over the honor which had been conferred upon him and stated that from Mr. Winter he had learned that the duties of the honorary vice-president were as arduous as those of the honorary president and he said he felt he and Mr. Winter could work in harmony over their difficult tasks.

In placing the name of Bob Davis in nomination for the presidency, Mr. DeWitt had stated that he was doing so because of the fact that Mr. Davis was an architect and could be depended upon to build. In accepting the office Mr. Davis thanked the members for the excellent manner in which the steam roller had worked in the hands of Mr. DeWitt and promised to do his bit to "build" interest in the society. He urged the members to get out and talk up the society to others and to create renewed interest so that next year the annual dinner would assume its old time proportions in regard to attendance and membership.

The matter of holding another summer party in Ulster county was discussed. Last year a very successful summer party was held at the Saugerties Bathing Club and again this summer another party will be arranged. The matter of date and place was left to the officers. It was suggested that the party be held in June before the vacation period would take many members from the city. June 17 or 24, both Saturdays, were suggested as dates.

In welcoming the 40 faithful members who were in attendance, McDonald DeWitt stated that he was pleased to see them there and hoped that next year there would be many more at the dinner. If the success of the party Saturday evening could be imparted to the non-attending members.

Many Inquiries Received As to Whether 2 per cent Fee Would Be Waived—It Can Not Be Done Without Changing City Charter—Now to Pay Taxes.

City Treasurer James H. Betts is receiving many inquiries from taxpayers as to whether the 2 per cent tax fee would be waived owing to the bank holiday. He has taken the matter up with Corporation Counsel Chris J. Flanagan and other legal authorities and has been informed that the fee can not be waived without making a change in the city charter.

Mr. Betts stated that taxpayers having checking accounts should mail their check with the tax bill to the city treasurer and the checks and bills would be held by the city treasurer until the banks reopen after the holiday.

In case a person has an interest or savings account he should take his bank book to the savings bank and leave it there, obtaining from the savings bank a blank check. This check should be filled out and signed and across the top of it should be written "Bank Book at Bank." Then the check and the tax bill should be mailed to the city treasurer and it will be held until the bank holiday ends.

Of course those people who are fortunate enough to have cash can pay their tax bill as usual.

Governor Expected To Extend Holiday

New York, March 6 (AP).—Governor Herbert H. Lehman was expected to take official action today extending the New York state banking holiday through Thursday.

This was merely a formality, to bring the state officially into line with the holiday proclaimed for all American banks by President Roosevelt.

The Governor received the President's proclamation last night without comment. Earlier he had issued a statement stressing as the object of immediate attention the "essential needs" of the people—food and payrolls.

"The most immediate requirement demanding my consideration is the rehabilitation of the banking mechanism so that the essential needs of the people of this state may be satisfied," he declared.

Later, he said: "There will be no snap judgment. Whatever plan is devised will meet the approval of all federal, state and banking agencies." The Governor spent last night at home here, and held himself in readiness to go to Washington or Albany as the need might arise.

Meanwhile, as a result of the President's proclamation, banks here got ready to issue clearing house certificates, possibly today or tomorrow. Bankers said that business could be carried on with clearing house certificates just as well as with other currency.

Some financiers said banks here might pay out currency when they reopen instead of, or in addition to, clearing house certificates, since they have large amounts of till money on hand. Such payments could be made only with permission of the secretary of the treasury at Washington.

Bankers said that under the President's order providing for the creation of special trust accounts citizens will be able to take their cash to banks to deposit with the assurance they will get it back again on demand. This would obviate the danger of having large sums in their own possession.

Bankers here expressed approval of the President's proclamation and indicated that under it business could go on with little or no interruption.

HOUSE LEADERS GET READY FOR CAUCUS

Washington, March 6 (AP).—House leaders today prepared for the special session Thursday by calling a caucus of the new Democratic membership to meet at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday to elect members of the controlling ways and means committee. Representative Rainey, the next speaker, summoned the conference of leaders to plan for organizing the new House.

Representative Byrnes, of Tennessee, the floor leader, Representative Lea of California, chairman of the caucus, and Representative Dougherty, from North Carolina, prospective ways and means chairman, attended. Dougherty had hurried back from North Carolina for the purpose.

Rules On Holidays

Washington, March 6 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce Commission ruled today that bank holidays and bank moratoriums, like legal holidays, can be "excused" from the computations of the periods of credit on payment of freight charges. The announcement was made following conferences between representatives of the carriers and the commission.

WHY Take Checks.

New York, March 6 (AP).—The New York Telephone Co. announced today that checks would be accepted in payment of telephone bills. The amount will be credited to the subscriber's account.

Nation's Banks Closed, But Money Or Substitute Expected On Tuesday

Text of Bank Proclamation

Washington, March 6.—The text of the Presidential proclamation closing every bank in the United States and taking control of the national currency follows:

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES
A Proclamation.

Whereas, there have been heavy and unwarranted withdrawals of gold and currency from our banking institutions for the purpose of hoarding; and

Whereas, continuous and increasingly speculative activity abroad in foreign exchange has resulted in severe drains on the nation's stocks of gold; and

Whereas, these conditions have created a national emergency; and, Whereas, it is in the best interests of all bank depositors that a period of respite be provided with a view to preventing further hoarding of coin, bullion or currency or speculation in foreign exchange and permitting the application of appropriate measures to protect the interests of our people; and

Whereas, it is provided in Section 5 (b) of the Act of October 6, 1917, (40 Stat. L. 411) as amended, "That the President may investigate, regulate, or prohibit, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, by means of licenses or otherwise, any transactions in foreign exchange, and the export, hoarding, melting, or earmarking of gold or silver coin or bullion or currency"; and

Whereas, it is provided in Section 16 of the said act "That whoever shall willfully violate any of the provisions of this act, or of any license, rule, or regulation issued thereunder, and whoever shall willfully violate, neglect, or refuse to comply with any order of the President issued in compliance with the provisions of this act, shall, upon conviction, be fined not more than $10,000, or, if a natural person, imprisoned for not more than ten years, or both;

Foreign Transfers Outlawed.

Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, in view of such national emergency and by virtue of the authority vested in me by said act and in order to prevent the export, hoarding or earmarking of gold or silver coin or bullion or currency, do hereby proclaim, order, direct and declare that from Monday, the sixth day of March, to Thursday, the ninth day of March, nineteen hundred and thirty-three, both dates inclusive, there shall be maintained and observed by all banking institutions and all branches thereof located in the United States of America, including the territories and insular possessions, a bank holiday, and that during said period all banking transactions shall be suspended.

During such holiday, excepting as hereinafter provided, no such banking institution or branch shall pay out, export, earmark, or permit the withdrawal or transfer in any manner or by any device whatsoever, of any gold or silver coin or bullion or currency, or take any other action which might facilitate the hoarding thereof; nor shall any such banking institution or branch pay out deposits, make loans or discounts, deal in foreign exchange, transfer credits from the United States to any place abroad, or transact any other banking business whatsoever.

Usual Banking Functions.

During the holiday, the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President and under such regulations as he may prescribe, is authorized and empowered (a) to permit any or all of such banking institutions to perform any or all of the usual banking functions, (b) to direct, evidence of claims against assets of banking institutions, and (c) to authorize and direct the creation in such banking institutions of special trust accounts for the receipt of new deposits which shall be subject to withdrawal on demand without any restriction or limitation and shall be kept separately in cash or on deposit in Federal Reserve bank or invested in obligations of the United States.

As used in this order, the term "banking institutions" shall include all Federal Reserve banks, national banking associations, banks, trust companies, savings banks, building and loan associations, credit unions, or other corporations, partnerships, associations or persons engaged in the business of receiving deposits, making loans, discounting business paper or transacting any other form of banking business.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the City of Washington, this sixth day of March, 1933, at 1 a. m., in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and fifty-seventh.

By the President:
CORDELL HULL,
Secretary of State.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

Scrip Explained, What It Is, Where Obtained, How Used

New York, March 6 (AP).—What is scrip, how does one get it and how does one use it?

The answers to those questions were being sought by millions today as quantities of the freshly-printed emergency currency substitute were prepared for distribution.

Clearing house scrip, being prepared by the New York Clearing House Association, consists of paper certificates based on bank deposits. They are issued by a group of banks, rather than by one banking institution.

Although details of the certificate plan announced yesterday by Mortimer Buckner, head of the Clearing House Association, have not yet been made public, it was believed the temporary medium of exchange would be paid out by the banks in lieu of cash. A depositor appearing at a bank to cash a check would be given the certificates to the full amount of the check.

It would also be the medium in which pay checks were cashed, and it would be accepted by merchants, landlords, railroads and others instead of the old currency. Bankers

Checks Accepted For Income Taxes

Acting under instructions from the Treasury Department, U. S. Collectors of Internal Revenue are accepting checks in payment of income tax but cannot accept Clearing House certificates or other forms of scrip, as the method of payment is explicitly stated in the law. The checks will be held until bank deposits are liberated, and then, if cash, the income tax will have been paid.

Financial Expert Interprets Bank Holiday Situation

Banking System Seeks Modified Operations Pending Emergency Legislation on Thursday—Propose Clearing House Certificates in Place of Currency.

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

Associated Press Financial Editor

New York, March 6 (AP).—The banking system of the United States bent its efforts today toward perfection of a plan to resume modified operations to finance the nation's commerce, pending the convening of Congress for emergency legislation on Thursday.

Preparations were rushed to take advantage of President Roosevelt's proclamation declaring a four-day bank holiday starting today, but permitting the resumption of banking activity with Clearing House certificates in place of currency.

Huge supplies of certificates had already been printed by the American Bank Note Company in denominations of $5, $10, $20 and $50, and every effort was being made to put the new system into operation as quickly as possible. The mechanical difficulties were enormous, but by Wednesday at least, or possibly earlier it was hoped that banks in a number of cities would be paying out the new "money."

In the meantime, gold windows at the Federal Reserve banks, the treasury and sub-treasuries, were closed, in keeping with the President's proclamation and all dealings in foreign exchange and international dealings in gold, silver or currency were at a standstill in the United States. The principal foreign financial centers struggled with the problem of trying to resume international payments, which were completely disrupted with official quotations on the dollar lacking.

Some financial authorities were in

Will Reopen Banks If Necessary To Permit Payment Of Payrolls

Payment Would Be Made With Clearing House Certificates or Scrip Issued by Local Banks or Cash Where No Exchange Was Available.

(By The Associated Press.)

The nation's banks were shut today, but behind the scenes plans for resuming business went steadily forward with prospects that at least some money or a good substitute would be available tomorrow.

Two states—Minnesota and New Mexico—announced their intention of petitioning the federal government for permission to reopen their institutions.

Secretary Woodin of the treasury announced banks would be reopened if necessary to permit payment of payrolls. He said that where possible payment would be made with clearing house certificates or scrip issued by local banks, but where no such exchange means was available he would authorize the issuance of cash.

Governor Lehman of New York said he probably would extend the holiday in his state to conform with President Roosevelt's Proclamation calling for a stoppage through Thursday, but that he had a plan for making available to depositors in sound banks a circulating medium which would permit business to continue uninterrupted.

The New York Clearing House Association had available many sales of scrip and it was regarded as probable the banks would be opened for payment of certificates on a rationed basis tomorrow morning.

The American holiday put a stop to dollar quotations in the markets of the world and everywhere a close watch was being kept on New York and Washington.

Postal Savings Open.

Postal Savings Banks—in the absence of instructions to the contrary—were accepting deposits and allowing withdrawals.

Although the banks were not handling out any money the government mint at Philadelphia was operating as usual. Twenty dollar gold pieces and pennies were being minted.

Representative Rainey, the next speaker of the House, summoned a Democratic caucus for Wednesday to set up the controlling ways and means committee for the special session on Thursday.

The governors of the New York Stock Exchange appointed a special committee to decide if the market should reopen tomorrow.

Governors of the Omaha Grain Exchange voted to open the market today, trading on the basis of Chicago May option, settlements to be made on the May price basis when the Chicago futures market opens.

Everywhere the attitude of the people was one of "watchful waiting."

Washington, March 6 (AP).—Immediate steps to lighten hardship caused by the nationwide bank shutdown was promised today, Secretary Woodin of the treasury, asserting that banks would be reopened if necessary to permit payment of payrolls.

He explained that where possible the payrolls would be met with clearing house certificates or scrip issued by the local banks, but where no such exchange means was available he would authorize the issuance of cash to meet the emergency.

Roosevelt at Work.

Woodin and his aides, the leaders of Congress and President Roosevelt himself were working hard at plans for action at the earliest possible moment.

At the treasury the officials concentrated on drafting regulations to put into effect the four-day bank closing proclamation of the President.

Representative Rainey, next speaker of the House, summoned a Democratic caucus Wednesday to set up the controlling Ways and Means committee immediately.

He and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, both indicated immediate action on what the President recommends for the emergency, with a probable recess then for a few days to work out a general program.

Woodin said "we hope to have everything fixed today."

The President summoned about him the governors of many states for immediate cooperative plans with the national government.

At the Capitol, Senator Robinson said he understood the immediate legislation to be brought up at the special session Thursday "will be looking toward the use of Clearing House certificates by banks that are in moratoria to the extent of their liquidity and authorization of a segregation of new deposits."

To Effect Program.

Washington, March 6 (AP).—The Democratic leader, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, today told newspapermen he expected the extra session of Congress on Thursday to elect President Roosevelt's emergency banking program immediately, and then recess for a few days to work out a general banking plan.

Keep Circulating Poisons From Blood That's The Right Way To Be Free From NEURITIS

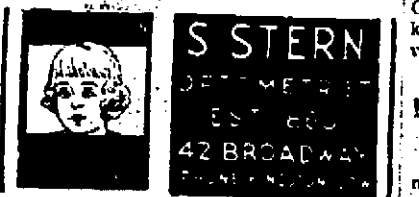

Whether you know it or not it is circulating poisons and acid in your blood that causes that terrible Neuritis—Sciatica, Lumbago and Rheumatism.

Without going into detail a physician asserts that the best way to be completely rid of these circulating poisons is to drink 3 glasses of water loaded with the most important mineral every day before meals. This mineral water purifies your blood, makes it alkaline and adds 2 teaspoonsful of oxygen to a quart of cold water.

This mineral water drink of Oxy-Crytine stimulates the liver cells—purifies the blood into the gall bladder and causes the bile to flow freely as nature intends it to flow—That means no more constipation.

But Oxy-Crytine goes further—it helps to keep the intestinal tract free of poisons, bacteria and harmful acid, flushes waste from kidneys and thus prevents poisons from being circulated in the blood and deposited in vital organs, joints and muscles.

Get a 75 cent bottle of Oxy-Crytine at McBride Drug Stores or any leading druggist anywhere and drink as suggested above—Remember Oxy can't harm—but it can do you a whole lot of good. If it doesn't your money back.

King Must Share Sentence
Strange mistakes are sometimes made in drafting parliamentary bills. Some of these are merely amusing, but others might have had serious consequences if not put right.

For instance, in one case all the members of parliament who had been president of the board of trade since the board of trade act of 1900 was passed would have been liable to heavy penalties if parliament had not regularized their position.

Then, some years ago, it was discovered that divorces of Anglo-Indians pronounced in Indian courts were invalid. As the Indian courts had been dealing with such cases for a long time and many of the people affected had remarried, things would have been awkward if the law had not been altered.

Sometimes a blunder creeps in during the passage of a bill through parliament. An old bill imposed a fine as the penalty for stealing linen from bleaching fields. One-half of the fine was to go to the prosecutor and one-half to the king.

While the bill was under consideration an amendment was carried altering the punishment to ten years' transportation. But the fifty-fifty clause was left in, so that it appeared that the king was to share the sentence.—London Answers.

Vancouver Island Named for Prominent Navigator

Vancouver is named for George Vancouver, who discovered it. This famous navigator was born in 1758, and entered the Royal navy in 1777 as an able seaman on the Resolution under the celebrated Capt. James Cook. He became a midshipman on the Discovery, on Captain Cook's third voyage; and in 1790 he passed his examination as a Lieutenant. He attained the rank of commander in 1790, and in 1791 was sent in the Discovery to take over from the Spaniards the Nootka Sound territory. He explored the Pacific coast of the North American continent, and on his return to the Old country in 1795 he devoted himself to preparing his journals for publication. He died when this task was practically completed, on May 10, at Petersham, England. His "Voyage of Discovery to the North Pacific Ocean and Round the World," in the years 1790-1795, edited by his brother, John Vancouver, appeared in London, in three volumes, in the same year.—Montreal Herald.

Habits of "Coons"

"Coons" are animals of the wood-land edges and habitually frequent grounds where running water is available. They build their homes preferably in hollow trees, but occasionally may be found in rocky crannies and even in bank burrows. Tracks of the raccoon curiously resemble those that might be made by the hands of a very small child. In food habits, the raccoon bears practically nothing on the menu. Frogs, fish, flesh, fowl, eggs, reptiles, insects, shell-fish, fruit, nuts, grain, vegetables, and sweets are acceptable fare with him; not equally so, but welcome at all times. If near water, the raccoon usually washes his food carefully before eating it.

CHAIN SALE SCHEME UNDER EYE OF U. S.

One Hundred N. Y. Concerns
Using System.

New York—Endless chain selling enterprises, operating from this city, have spread from Broadway to Meigs street and are keeping postal authorities busy. So far there has been no decision on their legality, but it was learned that the government is investigating all chain schemes operating through the mails which have been called to its attention.

There are at least 100 get-rich-quick chain selling schemes being operated from New York city offices, according to information from the National Better Business bureau. Some are conducted by honest business men, others by fly-by-night concerns, and a few are nothing less than rackets.

Fountain pens, hosiery, pocketbooks, golf balls, kitchen gadgets, razor blades, food supplies, jewelry, watches, men's white flannel trousers, and even real estate have been set forth as the mediums of "awakening America" and insuring the return of happy days.

Glib Promoters

Glib promoters have demonstrated mathematically how the ninth step in the chain selling scheme will net every participant a commission of $10,000.25, with the original sale of only four pieces of merchandise. What will happen when everyone has bought a wallet or a pair of socks has been ignored by the promoters.

Women's bridge clubs in Westchester and on Long Island have been working for the chain sellers. Charitable organizations have participated in the various "make a million" schemes, and the telephones in the Better Business bureau, both national and local, have been ringing with inquiries concerning legitimacy of the different schemes. The only advice either bureau had to offer was that "nobody knows yet whether it is legal or not, but that the participants were not likely to make any great amount of money."

Neither bureau has endorsed any of the schemes. The Better Business bureau of New York city, with offices at 290 Broadway, has found it difficult to draw the line.

Plenty of Chain Inquiries

"Some of the chain sellers are honest business men," said H. J. Kenner, "while others are operating shady, tricky concerns. We have received no complaints but we have been flooded with inquiries. It is not a new scheme, for I recall such methods of salesmanship were popular in 1912. We have not yet seen where we can make a complaint against the plan as a whole."

C. H. Charaban, postal inspector in charge of the New York office, said investigation of endless chain-selling organizations was a long drawn-out job. He pointed out that each concern had to be investigated individually, given a public hearing, and that frequently the case had to be carried through the courts.

Here's how it operates: The participant buys an article for $2.50 and 10 cents in stamps and then sells four articles at the same price, making a commission of $1.25 on the fourth sale. Thereafter the agent sells three other articles, making $3.75. His three customers sell three each and the original participant gets $33.75 in commissions and the others are ready to start their profit sharing. By the ninth step the total commissions amount to more than $12,000 if the chain remains unbroken.

Paralyzed by Bullet; Doctor Still Practices

St. Louis, Mo.—Paralyzed from the waist down by a robber's bullet, Dr. William A. Kluegel, a physician, is carrying on his practice on almost the same scale as formerly.

He has constructed a small trapeze, by which he is able to move himself about. His patients are brought to his bedside and he makes his diagnosis.

Doctor Kluegel even has performed several operations. "There are times when I'd like to pack up and go out on a call," he said, "but that is out of the question."

He was shot by a robber who entered his office early in August.

Knowing Lord's Prayer Results in Cut in Fine

Las Vegas, Nev.—Ability to recite the Lord's Prayer in court saved Mrs. A. S. Bender, a divorcee, lots of days in jail.

Appearing for sentence on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, the woman was informed by Judge Frank M. Ryan that she could be sent to jail for six months and fined $500. He admitted that the sentence might be lightened if she recited the Lord's Prayer.

In a low-pitched voice, Mrs. Bender recited the prayer, after which she was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $50.

"Dead Man" in Prison

Minneapolis, Wis.—Philip Stamm, forty, declared legally dead five years ago after he disappeared in 1922, is to serve two years in prison. His wife begged that he be released to "stay with his family," but the court declared: "You got along without him for 11 years so I guess another two years won't make much difference."

Don't Waste Sour Milk If You Want Long Life

Commissioner Baldwin Shows That Sour Milk Is Valuable to Health and Longevity

Editor's Note—This article is one of a series on economy and food appearing in this paper in cooperation with the Consumers Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

By CHARLES H. BALDWIN
Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets
Albany, New York

"THIS milk is sour," a housewife will say sometimes in much the same tone as she would use in announcing the burning of an expensive roast of meat. Not without reason, it is true, if she or some member of her household happens to have a yearning above all things at that particular time for a drink of refreshing, cold, sweet milk.

But let the housewife not speak too soon, for even sour milk has an interesting and important place in our diet, both of itself and through its products. It is a well-substantiated fact that the drinking of sour milk and the use of sour milk products by the inhabitants of the plains of eastern Europe and western Siberia have produced the longest-lived people in the world.

A representative of this race, far beyond the century mark in years, toured this country last summer, and while here he still insisted upon his diet of sour milk.

These minute forms of life called bacteria cause milk to sour by converting the milk sugar into lactic acid. Bacteria enter milk from many sources during milking and handling. But there are "good bacteria" and "bad bacteria."

The most common types are those that cause it to sour and thereby assume a most important place in the making of butter and cheese. Others, though they seem to have no effect on the milk itself, may spread disease, which is the reason for the stringent protections placed by governments as well as individuals about the handling and distribution of milk.

Fortunately, in these days of modern methods and inventions, as well as governmental regulations, milk is not only one of the most common, most economical and most important of foods, but it is also one of the cleanest and safest.

Another valuable type of milk-borne bacteria coming from sour milk is bacillus bulgaricus. Milk of this type is available as a special beverage in a few of our best restaurants.

A still more important type of milk is that which contains bacillus acidophilus. These bacteria are natural intestinal inhabitants of breast-fed but not bottle-fed babies. They seem to be normal bacteria for the intestinal tracts. Their presence is of great value in reducing putrefactive poisons of the intestinal tracts and in producing a desirable laxative condition. They have proved a distinct aid for the relief of arthritis and rheumatic diseases due to intestinal disorders and poisons.

Acidophilus milk may be purchased from the larger milk companies delivering milk in every city of the country.

These favorable bacteria found in milk all tend to drive out other putrefactive and even pathogenic bacteria which sometimes inhabit and multiply in the intestinal areas. Do not scorn sour milk, is good advice to the housewife, even if only for the sake of delighting the rest of the household with pancakes or other sour milk products.

SACO CLUB PRESENTS PLAY IN NEW PALTZ CHURCH

New Palitz, March 6.—On Thursday evening, March 2, the Saco Club of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, Newburgh, presented "The Match Box," a three act play, in the New Palitz Methodist Church. ## Delegates For Labor Conference In Albany

Albany, N. Y., March 6 (P.)—Delegates to the "Workers Conference for Labor Legislation," 250 strong, were encamped in Albany today planning a march on the capitol to present their own bills for unemployment insurance to the legislature.

Seven buses rolled into Albany over the week-end bringing the self-styled representatives of 247 organizations ranging in nature from the skilled crafts of the American Federation of Labor to the half-outcast but fighting councils of the unemployed. Most of the delegates were from New York city.

The conference issued a statement saying Lieutenant Governor M. William Bray and the leader of the assembly and senate will decide tonight "whether there shall be a joint session of the legislature at 1 p. m. tomorrow to receive the delegation."

"The conference proposes in any case to bring the bills in some fashion before the legislators," the statement added.

The unemployment insurance bill to be handed the legislature proposes the immediate creation of a fund of $500,000,000, to be raised partly by taxation on estates and incomes above $5,000, and by turning over all military appropriations to the fund.

Other bills would abolish labor injunctions, outlaw evictions and foreclosures, increase the unemployment relief program and provide benefits for working women who are prospective mothers.

In a "march" on the legislature two years ago several persons were injured in the capitol halls when police used force to effect a large delegation from "unemployed councils," after a noisy disturbance had started.

Lehman Tax Plans To Have Hearing

Albany, N. Y., March 6 (AP).—The much debated Lehman tax bills which reach into the pocketbook of every New Yorker come up for an airing at a public hearing this week.

The legislative taxation committee on Wednesday will hear how New Yorkers feel about the revenue bills that were suggested by Governor Herbert H. Lehman.

The proposed retail sales tax, which would be paid by every New Yorker who buys any article except food or gasoline; the proposed boost in the gasoline tax, which would cost every motorist one cent extra per gallon of gas to run his car, and the plan for broader income taxes—all will be debated at the hearing.

Groups of business men and taxpayers today are marshaling their delegations to the hearing. Organized sentiment for or against the taxes runs strong.

Meanwhile another tax plan began to be heard of in the legislative lobbies. This was a proposal credited to certain Republican quarters for a two per cent tax on professional service fees, such as charged by doctors and lawyers.

Governor Lehman suggested a retail sales levy on the basis of a tax of 3¢ of one cent for each $1 purchase.

Assemblyman Horace M. Stone, Republican chairman of the judiciary committee represents a Republican group that favors charging a 2-cent tax on each purchase of $1.

Estimates of the amount such a two per cent sales tax, coupled with the professional services tax, might produce ran as high as $112,000,000. Governor Lehman's budget needs

FASHIONS By ELEANOR GUNN

All Tied Smartly in a Knot

Spring as Usual Rushes Into Print

A CHINESE SHAWL PRINT

New York—Springtime is print time. The flowers that bloom then do about as much blooming on fabrics as they do on the soil. There seems no end to the ingenuity of designers of prints. For this we are grateful; otherwise our natural taste for flowers would be surfeited.

The dress sketched is made of an interesting print inspired by the design of an old Chinese shawl, just another one of those distinctive designs that keep interest in prints at a white heat.

There are many new plaids and checks and some square and oblong designs that are striking in either black or ivory or any combination one desires. The rather formal arrangement of a large and shaggy flower centering the bust is popular with designers of print frocks of a slightly formal aspect.

One of the most frequently used print arrangements is that of trimming a fabric with a print and of wearing printed accessories with plain costumes. This arrangement bids for popular favor, the shop windows playing it up.

A white organdie with very large broken plaid in black is one of the highlights for evening. There are also flowered organdies as well as striped ones. Organdies are usually made with puffed sleeves and with skirts both fuller and more daring than are usually chosen.

Dresses in the young girl manner often have very wide sashes. These are inclined to contrast with the frock. Black lacquered satin or black taffeta is liked on the aforesaid black and white plaid organdies. The sashes have a huge bow and two long ends and mark the waist where nature intended one's waist to be.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Fullness, when used for skirts, is concentrated in one place; at back in design, in neutral gray and white, for woollens or gray accessories. The disposition of the print is beautifully adjusted to the figure lines and the use of hand trimming on the skirt suggests a Bohemian line.

Three neckwear items illustrating the fashion for "tying things on." The evening scarf is one of Schiaparelli's ideas, a two-layer blue and pink, with a slit in one end and a crepe with hand-knotted to pull the other end through.

Bracelets—Cuff Width

Bracelets have been growing until we have all come to call them "cuff bracelets." The latest is that they are actually turning into a cuff. Their chief feature, is that although made of metals they are shaped like a gauntlet cuff, trim at the wrist and flaring out four or five inches above the wrist. They may be flexible or hinged. In the former case, some are made in metal mesh, mated with capulet collars to dress up dinner gowns; in the latter, bright colored enamels are seen. The flaring cuff permits a close fitting dress sleeve to fit under the bracelet. When it is used on a shorter sleeve frock, the silhouette is by its novelty makes an appeal.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Stylish Blouse Model.

7786. A youthful and pleasing style with deep yoke and shirring. As pictured in the large view, the fitted portion of the sleeve is omitted, and the puff is pulled up. In the small back view the puff is shown longer. The small front view pictures the sleeve in wrist length, with short puff. Crepe, velvet, sheer, woollen or lawn may be used for this style.

Designed in 6 sizes: 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, and 34 bust measure. Size 28 will require 2 yards of 29 inch

NOTE the remarkable improvement in just one week. If your hands are red and rough from using harsh soap, try using Lux for dishwashing and see them grow smooth and white!

VALIANT DUST

By Phoebe Christopher Wren
 Author of "MAGNET"

Chapter 25
 A NEW FRIEND

WHAT a heavenly sound! Someone was positively whistling, quite near, and Margaret was so happy to hear it. She had never heard him do so—nor Jules either, for that matter.

And whoever was whistling must be a European. Moore didn't whistle.

Or, of course, it might be the Señor Pedro Mallon.

Raisul? He was a Moor, but having been educated in France, and lived so long in Europe, he might whistle. She had never heard him do so—nor Jules either, for that matter.

What would happen if Raisul caught her there?

Anger mingled with the fear that clutched at Margaret's heart. Who was she, that she should dread this wretch; this beastly native?

Margaret's mouth set in a straight line; her hands clenched; and she realized that she was carrying the heavy dagger with which she had hammered on the door of Elisa Beth at Al's room.

Drawing it from its cut-throat sheath, Margaret saw that the blade was bright, keen-edged and sharp-pointed.

"This is ridiculous," she said, and crept forward in the direction of the sound.

A few yards farther on, yet another corridor of this warren branched from the passage in which she was.

Standing at an unglazed Moorish window that was little more than an arrow-slit with a horseshoe top, was a man, wearing a hooded cloak, and yellow headless slippers; a very much bigger man than Raisul, bigger than Jules or his father.

Motionless, in the dark shadow of the wall, he watched intently someone or something that interested him below.

Suddenly, hearing her footsteps, with a swift movement he turned toward Margaret, at the same time drawing farther back than the light, but not before she had recognized the bearded face of Oberleutnant Carl von Mittenstein alias Herr Schlacht.

"Oh, good morning," said Margaret. "I've rather lost myself, I'm afraid. Could you tell me how to get to the courtyard—the inner courtyard, from which three flights of stairs lead up to the part of the castle where my husband's mother's apartments are?"

The man bowed courteously, swiftly studying her face with a steady gaze which, though keen and penetrating, was yet not offensive.

In the moment of her sudden appearance, it seemed that something lay, watchful, anxious, peering from behind the hooded, bearded mask that was his face. As he did not immediately reply Margaret began all over again in French.

"Bon jour, Monsieur. Je suis..."

"I speak English," interrupted the man. "Please to speak to me if you have a preference. I understand it quite perfectly, though I do not speak it so quite perfectly."

"Oh, good," replied Margaret. "My French is very far from perfect, and so is my understanding of it, especially if it is spoken quickly. Will you kindly show me the way out?"

"Yes, I know the way out," replied the man, and added, with a slow smile, "Sometimes the way out is easier than the way in, isn't it?"

"Sometimes," agreed Margaret, "and sometimes it is a great deal harder."

"Ah," he observed, "do you, perhaps, think you find it more difficult to leave Mekazen than to come into it? I, too, find it more difficult to come into Mekazen than to go out."

"Well, at the moment," replied Margaret, "I want to get out of this wing of the castle. Once I'm in the courtyard, I can find my own way to my husband's quarters."

"Yes," agreed Herr Schlacht, "I will do so with good blessing," but he left all God's children. Those that trust in Him are compassed as with a shield.

Prayer: Grant us, O God Who art our shield and sure defence, the grace of courage. Open our eyes to the power which attends Thy children if only they go quietly and confidently about their appointed tasks. Forgive us the distrust of ourselves, of life and of those which find foes where there are none to make us afraid and besieges us by shadows, when the heights about us are full of the horses and chariots of God. In His name in whose discipleship there is no place for fear. Amen.

Much too large to have any use in one wears a fancy headdress and water, even in the presence of oxygen, cannot rust.

The chemical process of rusting needs some other agent, commonly called an "impurity." This impurity may be the carbon-dioxide in the air, or any of several other minerals found in commercial varieties of iron.

It is a common experience to find that an iron or steel surface will rust if it is exposed to moisture, and it is also well known that rust is an oxide of iron—but strange as it seems, it takes more than water and oxygen to rust iron. Pure iron, wet with pure water, even in the presence of oxygen, cannot rust.

has the disadvantage of wearing an enormous bell tied around its neck, at least once a year when they ring out the old year and ring in the new.

Philadelphia.—Difficulties of getting money from home long have troubled the college boy but Paul Levy, a senior at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, has a new one to tell. Paul got a telegram from his father, a Cleveland, O. merchant. "Rush all cash you can spare," the strange message read. "Bank Closed."

Berlin.—Johanna Decker got "arrested" because his boss said he took time off without acceptable excuse. Johanna brought a legal action, declaring he had been sick. The boss called the Becker family doctor to prove that it was Johanna's brother, Josef, who was sick. Johanna and Josef, twins who look exactly alike, stood up in court.
The doctor shook his head.
"They're as different as two eggs," the doctor said. "I can't say which was sick."

Johanna got his job back and a year's pay to boot.

Vancouver, B. C.—Like their men folk, many British Columbia women have caught the gold-hunting fever. Many are now in the field and others have announced their intention to go out with pick and axe in the spring.

In India, the fakirs present a spectacle to tourists. Two lovely performers break bottles and lamp chimneys before the eyes of the audience, and throw the jagged pieces into a box already filled with broken glass. They step barefooted into the box and do an Oriental dance in the glass without injury.

EXPLANATION:
The performers toughen their feet in a strong solution of alum water and thoroughly rub them with pulverized resin glass before they appear. They throw the freshly broken glass around the edges of the platform. The glass on which they actually dance is very thick, heavy, and filed or ground so that the sharp edges are rounded off. The girls just pretend to dance on the sharp glass.

Purim, Jewish Feast, Sunday, March 12

Purim—The Feast of Lots.
Purim, which this year will be celebrated Sunday, March 12, is one of the minor holidays of the Jewish calendar. It commemorates the deliverance of the Jews of Persia from the power of Haman, the vizier of King Ahasuerus. Haman had cast lots to choose the name "Purim," which means "lots," to determine which month was to be set for the massacre of all the Jews in Persia. Mordecai and his wife Esther, becoming aware of the plot, succeeded in deposing Haman and in obtaining royal permission for the Jews to defend themselves on the 13th and 14th of Adar. The deliverance of the Jewish from the threat of annihilation and their victory over their enemies have ever after been celebrated as the Feast of Purim.
The Feast of Purim never attained as high a degree of spiritual influence as did some of the other festivals. The usual readings of praise read on other holidays are omitted on Purim. The one characteristic of the Purim ritual is the reading of the Book of Esther on the evening of the thirteenth day of Adar.

As a folk celebration, Purim made up for whatever influence it may have lacked as a religious festival. It was celebrated as a carnival. Masks were worn by old and young. Purim plays were given re-enacting the drama of Esther and Haman. In addition to this merry celebration of Purim there arose the custom of giving gifts to the poor. Every Jew, no matter how poor, would give something to someone more needy than himself. And so the day of popular rejoicing was touched with the elevating spirit of benevolence.

One of the tricks of cigarette advertising is to pretend that "Heat Treatment" is an exclusive process, making one cigarette better than any other.

EXPLANATION: All cigarette manufacturers use heat treatment. It is a routine process of manufacture. The first Camel cigarette ever made was manufactured under the heat-treating process. Every one of the billions of Camels produced since has received the necessary heat treatment.

Harsh, raw tobaccos require intensive processing under high temperatures. The more expensive tobaccos, which are naturally mild, call for only a moderate application of heat. Heat treatment never can make cheap, inferior tobacco good.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

This is the most important statement ever made in a cigarette advertisement. Weigh its words. Consider what it means. Then try Camels.

Notables Present For Walsh Funeral

Washington, March 6.—(AP)—Urgent cases of state were laid aside today while America's officialdom gathered at the State department to pay the last respects to the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh.

President Roosevelt and members of his cabinet—in which Walsh would have had a place—headed the list of notables who gathered at the State department to pay the last respects to the late Senator.

Archbishop Michael J. Curran of Baltimore and Bishop John M. Neumann of Washington, the auxiliary bishop of the Baltimore diocese, officiated at the funeral service in the cathedral.

In a brief eulogy of the distinguished legislator, who had served in the Senate 24 years before his death early Thursday, Archbishop Curran said of him:

"The beloved Senator from Montana deserves a eulogy, but he needs none. He loved and served his country. He lived and served his fellowman."

By the side and near the head of the casket sat the sorrowing widow, the former Signora Nieves Perez Chacon de Trefin of Havana, to whom the Senator was wed but a few days before his death. Nearby were the Senator's relatives.

The Senate stood in recess for 15 minutes after the conclusion of the ceremonies as a further token of respect.

The body will leave Washington at 3:30 p. m. for interment rites at Helena, Montana, Thursday, after a funeral service in the Catholic cathedral at Helena.

THREE KINGSTON PEOPLE CARRIED AWAY ON TRAIN

Referring to the departure from Highland about 11 o'clock Friday night of the Roosevelt special, which took some 500 people to the inauguration from Poughkeepsie and vicinity, the Poughkeepsie Star says: "Delaying too long the au revoir to Phil Mylod and his party, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Everett and Mrs. Walter Miller, Kingston residents, and Mrs. Philip Schantz of Highland were carried away with the shouting group of Washington excursionists."

A special stop was made at Newburgh and the unwilling stopovers left the train and motored home.

When Drama Came.
The earliest European drama is the Greek, which grew up in connection with the festival of Dionysus, celebrated in Attica, where the festival came to be celebrated by the performance of a tetralogy, consisting of one comedy and a trilogy of serious plays or tragedies celebrating a connected series of mythic episodes. In Medieval Europe mystery, miracle and morality plays, acted in connection with the church festivals preceded the appearance during the Renaissance of the modern drama which has developed besides tragedy and comedy, tragic comedy, melodrama, opera, burlesque, farce, etc.

Stadium Muscullai.
The statues around the Stadium Muscullai, states Anglo Flavio Guidi in Il Progresso Italo-Americano, New York city, represent a special game, as boxing, wrestling, etc. There are nineteen of them, and each one was donated by subscription by the nineteen Italian regions—Dionisia, Liguria, Lombardia, Venezia, Venezia Giulia, Venezia Tridentina, Dalmazia, Marche, Toscana, Emilia, Abruzzo e Molise, Campania, Lucania, Calabria, Puglia, Sicilia Sardegna e Lazio. The stadium is located near the Paroli in Rome, half an hour's drive from the center of the city.

Lifting Power of Gases.
Hydrogen will lift 0.071 pounds per cubic foot, under ordinary conditions while helium will lift 0.096 pounds per cubic foot. At sea level under average conditions, 1000 cubic feet of air weighs about 80 pounds, while the same amount of hydrogen weighs about 5 pounds, and the same amount of helium about 12 pounds. As it is difficult to get these gases in the pure state, their actual lifting power per 1000 cubic feet would average about 7.1 pounds for hydrogen and 66 pounds for helium.

First American Shoemaker.
Thomas Beard, who came to Massachusetts in 1620, is usually regarded as the first shoemaker to arrive on the American continent. He came from London and brought his tools and a good supply of leather. Of course many pairs of shoes were made here before that date, but they were usually crude affairs, made by inexperienced hands. The first settlers brought a supply of shoes with them and many adopted the Indian moccasins until shoes were to be had—Pathfinder Magazine.

Brown Bear Knows His Bedtime.
The brown bear seems to know by instinct when his condition is such as to warrant its going to bed for the winter. At the close of a season, during which there has been a scarcity of food, it will not retire at the normal time, but continues searching for food in order to acquire the store of fat necessary to sustain its life during hibernation.

Salt in Sea Water.
Salt forms 3 per cent or 60 pounds to the ton, of ordinary sea water.

The Fable of Her Folks and His Folks

By GEORGE ADE

ONCE there was a man who had a wife and each of them had a relative. The man lived in a coming-Along Town and had an income and knew how to put up a front. He had made himself a Perseus not to be accused at.

The Misus knew how to Superintend a Home and regulate the two Olive Branches and wear Clothes and talk at Club Meetings, so that she could have been designated, without Exaggeration, as Some Punkins.

Now, because Ralph and Jessie had both qualified for the Majors and were battling above 300 the Kin on both sides of the Fence paid them some Attention, often dropping in at the House to spend a few minutes and then hanging around for two or three days. It is a well-known fact that when a Person gets married nowadays and later finds out that he has married Only One, it is almost a Miracle. If we were to omit from the Social Register the Names of those who become Important by reason of Somebody Else, there would be many vacant Pages.

Ralph didn't like to open up on her Family and she would have preferred to spare his Feelings and not dig any Dirt regarding his low-down Connections, but sometimes Forbearance ceases to be convenient.

Hoover Urges All To Support Bank Plan

New York, March 6 (AP).—From his apartment high in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, former President Herbert Hoover today called for "wholehearted support" of his successor's plan for meeting the banking and economic crisis.

"The President's proclamation," Mr. Hoover said, "should receive the wholehearted support and cooperation of every citizen."

This brief word was given to newspapermen by Lawrence Richer, Mr. Hoover's secretary, in response to inquiries as to what the former President thought of President Roosevelt's action.

Mr. Hoover did not amplify his statement publicly nor give out any opinion as to the various details of the Roosevelt plan.

Earlier, when informed of the death of Mayor Anton Cermak, victim of an assassin's bullet, Mr. Hoover expressed through Richer his sorrow at the tragedy. Aside from these brief public words, however, Mr. Hoover remained inside the hotel, very much a private citizen attending to personal matters.

SEARCH TAVERN RUINS FOR OTHER VICTIMS

Glens Falls, N. Y., March 6 (AP).—Firemen today had recovered three bodies from the ruins of a wayside tavern which was destroyed when fire swept its century-old timbers yesterday.

Thomas Monahan, who was almost as old as the building he owned, was one of the men who perished in the fire. The body of the 78 year old proprietor was found with the bodies of Walter "Sid" La Point, 25, Hudson Falls hotel man, and James "Jeff" Carroll, 34 year old World War veteran.

Search of the ruins continued as firemen and state police sought to make sure there were no other victims. The building was known as Griswold Tavern.

SPRING FASHIONS MOST INTRIGUING

Map Suits Are Youthful and Have Certain Dash

The first of the spring suits from the fashion designers in Paris. Like the robes, they always arrive, not with the spring but well before it. They are prophetic of the future; they announce, as effectively as the weather man what spring is going to be like in Paris.

This year, they are forecasts of fashions that are, above all things, youthful. The correct spring suit is, like the young people who wear it, active, bright, sportlike. Even with formal costumes, it carries with it a certain dash that it never had before.

His jacket is short, but so cleverly designed that it hasn't the abbreviated appearance of its predecessors. The combination of jacket and skirt often looks more like a dress than a suit.

Its shoulders are wide and smooth, giving plenty of freedom to the arms, and a great deal of style in the bargain. The skirt is ample but not so full that it loses any streamlining effects of a young figure.

One of its best features lies in the way it can be adjusted and turned about and changed to look like several costumes.

MORE VELVET
By CHERRIE NICHOLAS

Seems as if we never will get enough of velvet, and let us hope we never will, for fabrics may come and fabrics may go but we are glad that designers are seeing to it that velvet stays with us forever. An intriguing thought which fashion creators are advancing just now is to add velvet accessories and trimmings to costumes of contrasting materials. This is working out in two ways to that many of the new print and crepe daytime frocks carry velvet details such as girdles, bows, belts and scarfs. At the same time evening gowns take unto themselves all sorts of cunningly devised little velvet wraps and other beguiling fantasies. The group pictured includes at the top a little green velvet capelet which crosses at the front in a unique manner. Below, to the right, is a white uncut velvet cape over a black velvet gown. To the left is shown a black transparent velvet jacket with ecclesiastic sleeves. The last number is a fetching waist-length jacket of velvet in that very new yellow-red of which we are hearing so much this season. It is worn with a frock of white uncut velvet.

STYLE NOTES

Spring fur designers stress capes. Coats lead away from the moldered line.

Tailored fashions have gone masculine.

The new cotton laces are smart looking.

Choice of navy rather than black is noted.

We are to wear flowers again, says fashion.

All the new hats demand perfectly coiffed hair.

Hats match scarfs and gloves either in color or fabric.

Color of Spring Hosiery Tends to Neutral Shades

Grays, those illusive values that are claimed by both the gray and beige families, will make their appearance in spring hosiery colors.

Neutrality is the keynote of practically all hosiery. Colors are being adopted on the basis of versatility—their ability to blend with costumes and shoes.

Melodrama in a Revival

Among the new spring fabrics, the group which is newest of all is the cloque and blistered fabrics classed as melodramas.

A Red Coat

If your young daughter has a liking for red, by all means indulge it by presenting her with a new evening coat.

Trial Postponed

New York, March 6 (AP).—Trial of United States Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania on federal lottery charges, was again postponed today, this time on the plea of his attorneys that his detention in New York at this time would deprive the state of Pennsylvania of representation during a national crisis.

Expert Interprets Bank Situation

clined to regard the United States as "technically" off the gold standard, although this was denied by Treasury Secretary Woodin in Washington.

Markets and Pit Closed

The Wall Street security and commodity markets, and the Chicago wheat pit, remained closed under the second day of the banking holidays proclaimed by the New York and Illinois governors early Saturday.

The security and commodity exchanges were not included in President Roosevelt's proclamation and consideration was given in financial quarters to the desirability of resuming trading before the national holiday expires. It was recalled that the New York Stock Exchange continued to function during the banking crisis in 1907, when clearing house certificates were used.

If trading were resumed, and the United States were regarded as off the gold standard, or likely to devalue its currency, financial experts argued that commodity and share prices should boom, but Secretary Woodin's emphatic denial that the country was leaving the gold standard tended to dash that theory.

A country is generally considered on a gold standard when its currency can be redeemed in gold on demand, although definitions are varied, and involve many technicalities. Although during the holiday, American paper money is clearly not redeemable in gold, some bankers pointed out that it was merely a special situation during the four-day holiday, such as exists on Christmas Day or any other holiday in which gold was not being paid out, so that it was idle to conjecture as to whether the country was technically "on gold."

Differ From England.

The situation differed from Great Britain's suspension of gold payments in September of 1931, for that was a definite suspension for an unlimited time, while the current suspension in this country is specifically for a four-day special holiday period, pending the enactment of a measure, as yet unrevealed, to restore stability.

The British suspension of gold payments was followed by immediate foreign exchange dealings, permitting the pound sterling to depreciate sharply in terms of other currencies, which in turn decreased its purchasing power and brought an upturn in prices in terms of that currency. No enduring advance in commodity prices in terms of sterling has resulted, because world commodity prices have continued to decline. Sterling prices have remained about unchanged, however, while prices in France and the United States are substantially lower than when Great Britain left the gold standard.

Suspending gold payments, however, does not necessarily mean a depreciation of the currency. Germany has restricted gold payments to a degree amounting almost to suspension since her banking crisis in the summer of 1931, yet with rigid control of foreign exchange transactions, the level of her currency has been kept virtually stable.

When the international gold transactions in this country were stopped last Saturday by the banking holiday in New York, which was observed by the New York Federal Reserve Bank which handles these transactions, the country still had some $4,300,000,000 of monetary gold, or more than a third of the entire supply in the world. This was well above the level reached as recently as last June.

Has Enough Gold.

Bankers point out, therefore, that once confidence is restored, the United States has much more than enough gold to function as before on the international gold basis. In ordinary times, gold is used only as the international means of settling balances. But for the first time in a generation, the recent banking crisis prompted Americans to seek gold coin, and even gold bullion, and in the past week, millions of dollars in the yellow metal were paid out by the Federal Reserve Banks, and put into safe deposit boxes by hoarders, aggravating the severe drain of gold abroad.

The recent reduction in the Federal Reserve bank's gold reserves would not have been particularly serious, had it not come at a time when currency in circulation was rising at an unprecedented rate. The reserve system must, as a general rule, maintain a 40 per cent gold reserve against its notes, so with each dollar of gold that goes out, is removed the banking for $2.50 in currency. The reserve ratio of the system, when last reported as of the close of business on Wednesday, was 53½ per cent, or well above the 40 per cent minimum, although since then and the close of business Friday, the ratios of the New York Reserve Bank alone and some of the others are understood to have slipped under the 40 per cent level. The Federal Reserve Act provides, however, that the reserves may be permitted to run below 40 per cent under special arrangements.

Explanation Of What Scrip Is

said that since the scrip would be accepted for deposits at parity by all clearing house members, it would serve as a satisfactory medium of exchange.

Different Denominations.

The certificates, which represent actual deposits, will be issued, it was believed, in denominations ranging from $1 up. It was the understanding here that banks, when they reopen, might be permitted to pay out fractional coin that is coins ranging from pennies to half dollars to meet the need for change.

Leading authoritative statements, it was the belief that bankers were working on a plan for a uniform standard of collateral throughout the country. In this way, New York scrip could circulate in other cities and vice versa. Thus it appeared that the new money might be acceptable at or near parity throughout the nation.

Bankers recalled the crisis of 1907, the last occasion on which scrip certificates were used here, they were, in effect, liens or obligations against the assets of the banks. In New York, they were used primarily for payments between banks, but in other sections they circulated just like money. When the need for them disappeared they were retired as fast as they were deposited in banks.

More Details Expected

More details about the scrip were expected shortly. Hunkeler's statement, issued last night, said only that the Clearing House Association had adopted a certificate plan to be put into effect "when, as and if the present emergency demanded it."

The Bronx plant of the American Bank Note Company hummed with activity as demands for scrip came from many parts of the country. Plans for quick shipment of the certificates to villages and big cities were received.

Orders from private firms for scrip in which to pay employees also came in. Every one was talking scrip. Every one was asking questions about it. Not all of them could be answered definitely immediately, but in general it may be said that clearing house certificates are a new kind of money, useable as such in the ordinary transaction of business. During the duration of the emergency they are not cashed, however, and thus they do not deplete bank funds.

OVER-FATIGUE WILL BE DISCUSSED BY SPEAKER

"Why Be Tired?" is the watchword adopted by Miss Ella Cushman, household management specialist from the New York State College of Home Economics at Cornell University, who will speak here next Friday, March 10, at the Fair Street Reformed Church at 2 p. m.

"Over-fatigue is one of the greatest enemies of happiness in the home and elsewhere, not only for the person who is tired but for all who are associated with that person. Over-tired people were once regarded with sympathy, but the modern world is more inclined to blame them for interfering with the happiness of others," says Miss Cushman.

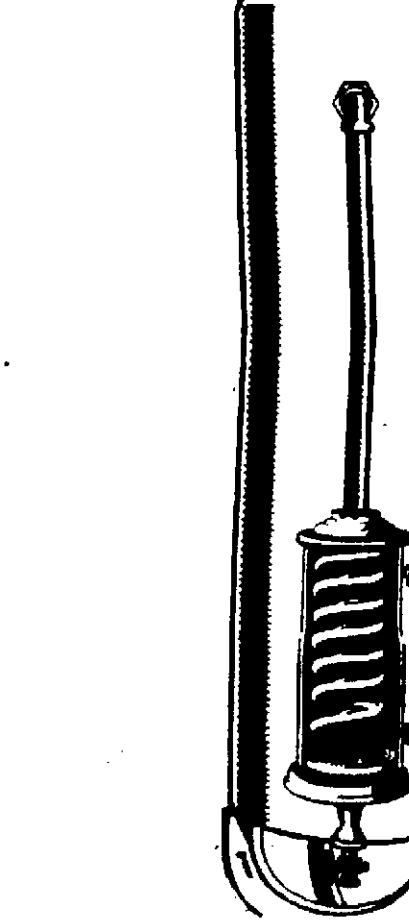

"Especially in the present state of the world the best possible use of time, money, and especially strength is called for. This is literally impossible to anyone who is continually suffering from the bad effects of over-fatigue," she continued. What may be Miss Cushman.

Jewish Community Center.

Legion Welfare Bouts At Old Armory Tonight

As far as local fight fans are concerned, Tony Silvers and Johnny Montana, principals in the main bout at the old armory tonight for the American Legion Welfare Fund, are unknown quantities, but according to Matchmaker Lou Studer they are two of the hardest hitting and toughest little bantamweights in the ranks of Amateur Federation scrappers.

"Ever since I started amateur boxing here," said Studer this morning, "I have tried to get Montana, better known as the Filipino Flash, for a ring appearance against a suitable opponent but he was too busy and boxers were not available who would make a good fight with him. He is a very classy boy and I am sure the fans will like him."

"What about Silvers?" Say, he's just the boy to test Montana. He'd fight Marty Moskowitz if I'd give him the match, but, as you know, Marty is a lightweight and out of his class as far as weight goes. But Silvers would take him on. You, he'd even try Smoke Watkins, our own heavy weight, if let go. Such a game little scrapper I've never seen. And can he hit! Just wait until you see him in action."

So that's what Doc thinks of the feature and if all he says comes true, those who patronize the welfare bouts should be well repaid for visiting the old armory.

Regarding the supporting scraps, Studer thinks the semi-final will crowd the headliner for the spot fight. In this set to Buddy Emerson, St. Remy, pride, will trade leather with a boy named Jack Diamond, "a punching demon if there ever was one," said Doc in forecasting that Buddy will have one of the toughest scraps of his career tonight.

"Admirers of Emerson as well as some who would like to see him bumped off in the ring have been asking for a real good man to fight Buddy and I think I have just the fellow in Diamond," said Studer, explaining that the little Brooklynite is a heavy puncher, clever boxer and a boy with plenty of speed who comes highly recommended from the same stable as the renowned Eddie Sexton.

The rest of the card is as follows:

Special Event, 5 Rounds.
Adam Unversack, Ellenville, vs. Frank Danzig, Brooklyn.
Willie Barrow, Poughkeepsie, vs. Eli Dodge, Brooklyn.

4 Rounds.
Jimmy Johnson, Ossining, vs. Young Kouhout, Twaitskill Club.
Ralph Brown, Kingston, vs. Joe Nery, East Kingston.
Kid Miller, Kingston, vs. Kenneth Bovee, St. Remy.
Although reserved seats have been in big demand, there are still a number of desirable ones left. They can be obtained at the box office. Those wishing good bleacher seats are advised to be on hand early as indications are that there will be an overflow looking for the lower priced places. Starting time of the first bout is advertised for 8:30 o'clock.

WHITE PLAINS GOLFER WINS MIAMI TOURNAMENT

Miami Biltmore Country Club, Fla., March 6 (AP)—Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., pro claimed title to Miami's top winter golf honors by virtue of his outstanding victory in the $5,000 Florida year round club open and his co-tie to the international four ball matches of ten days ago.

Runyan, yesterday scored a 266, ten strokes ahead of his leading opponent, and 18 strokes under par for the course. The tournament was played with six inch cups at the behest of Gene Sarazen. Runyan won $1,000 first money.

A Dash of Pepper

SPORT SLANTS By ALAN J. GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor.)

We have in hand the query: "Aren't you convinced yet that Cunningham can beat Venke at the mile?"

It is relayed to us by Ted Carpenter, Marquette's energetic purveyor of information. Ted would, of course, rather discuss the subject of Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette's great young "negro sprinter who is destined to beat them all this year and, quite likely, set a few new records.

Moreover, I cannot accept the challenge so far as the Cunningham-Venke situation is concerned, not having taken any stand therein, or having the slightest doubt whatever of the chunky Kansan's ability to "take" Venke any time they start the last lap of a mile race on fairly even terms.

I have seen Cunningham whip Venke pretty soundly three times, once in the Olympic trials last summer, and twice on the metropolitan board tracks. I have never seen Venke beat the N. C. A. A. record holder, although I have yet to see Gene regain his place as the 1932 winter season, when he ran the record mile of 4:10 at Madison Square Garden. On any basis, Cunningham is a more reliable mile.

Cunningham will beat Venke consistently for the same reason that Carr whipped Eastman. Glenn has a "kick" that Gene cannot match. Venke can make a strong finish, but, being essentially a strider, he needs to start "kicking" about a lap and a half from the tape. Cunningham, on the other hand, has a real finishing sprint which he can accelerate to meet developments.

Greater Than Thorpe
Before he is through with athletics, Jim Bausch should remove any lingering doubt that he is a greater all-around track and field athlete than the once great Sam and Fox T. dian, Jim Thorpe.

This is a strong statement to make, in the face of the redskin's achievements. I would not go so far as to say that Bausch could equal much less surpass, Thorpe's accomplishments otherwise, taking football and baseball also into consideration. "Jarring Jim" never was the gridiron terror that Thorpe was in his prime.

I doubt, however, if Bausch has yet to reach his peak in the famous decathlon in which he set a world record of more than 8,400 points in the 1932 Olympics with a magnificent conquest of Finland's favorites.

Feminine Heats Flatter
In his first appearance this winter in New York, Jim heaved the shot close to 50 feet and easily hoisted himself over the pole vault bar at 13 feet. He didn't miss doing 13.6 by much and actually gave Yale's trio of specialists, Brown, Thompson and Pierce, quite a battle, besides making feminine hearts flutter with his superb build.

Bausch never will be the sprinter or high jumper that Thorpe was, but otherwise he excels the Indian's best performances, especially in weight-tossing events like the shot, discus and javelin.

Bausch beat the Finns at their own game, spear-throwing, last summer, as a crowning touch to his Olympic victory. If he gets the competition and incentive, "Jarring Jim" should add 200 or 300 points to his decathlon record before he is through.

Latest News from The Baseball Front

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 6 (AP)—In a somewhat warlike statement, George Herman Ruth has re-affirmed his declaration that he will not play ball for the New York Yankees this season for a paltry $50,000.

"I will not sign a contract for $50,000," the Babe said when asked to comment on reports from New York that the Yankees would not boost their original offer. "If I thought I was not worth more than that I wouldn't be asking it."

Los Angeles, March 6 (AP)—Bill Terry has taken stock of his New York Giants after a week's training and decided they'll do it, if the pitching holds up.

Terry has got to find help for his two mainstays, Carl Hubbell and Fred Fitzsimmons. Hal Schumacher and Roy Parmelee may be the answer and Terry makes no secret of the fact that he is expecting much from them as well as from Ray Starr and Glen Spencer, secured in trades during the winter.

Coral Gables, Fla., March 6 (AP)—Freddie Heimech, veteran southpaw pitcher, ought to be able to hold his job with the Brooklyn Dodgers on his fielding skill alone.

Dopesters have figured out that Freddy hasn't made a fielding error in five years. In 150 games since 1928, Heimech has handled 249 assists and 35 putouts without a bobble. He has figured in 15 double plays as well.

New Congress Will Assemble Thursday

Democratic-Dominated National Legislature Will Meet Primarily To Enact Legislation That Will Permit An Orderly Resumption of Banks.

Washington, March 6.—A new Congress—the seventy-third—will assemble Thursday at noon charged with the weighty responsibility of meeting one of the most serious crises in the nation's proud history. At the call of President Roosevelt, issued yesterday in a brief proclamation asserting that the "public interest" requires its presence, the Democratic-dominated national legislature will meet primarily to enact legislation that will permit an orderly reopening of banks.

Before it is person, Franklin D. Roosevelt will go with the program he has drafted after weeks of constant study for saving the country's life. That he will depend on his own telling oratory to drive home to the legislators his ideas, instead of the drone of a reading clerk, has not been definitely determined, but it has been indicated for days that this might be his policy.

The first of the emergency program that will face Congress is near to readiness. In a brief message issued through a secretary following the proclamation, the President said: "Anticipating the meeting of Congress on Thursday, I am preparing an immediate program directed to meet the present monetary emergency. It is, of course, essential that the first business before the Congress will be the present banking and financial situation."

And, by his own movement, the President has allowed Congress just one day in which to drive his program through. The bank holiday which later will be proclaimed a few hours later will end Friday morning and by that time the President of just two days in office, hopes that the climb upward will have begun. If by then the legislation has not been jammed through, an extension of the banking holiday may be taken.

What this program that has been kept so secret is, no one outside of intimate advisers know. But through the long and tumultuous Sabbath yesterday, the man who occupies the White House carried on serenely, placating the worries of those leaders in finance and business whom he saw. Frowns which they wore as they entered the White House faded largely as they left. Almost frank air of confidence shone from those who had been permitted to look beneath the covers of the "New Deal."

Red Cross Reports Work for the Needy

Since November 1, 1932, the production committee of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross has given to the needy people of the city and county over 3,000 garments made from materials sent from the National Chapter in Washington, supplemented by ready made garments, such as trousers, underwear, sweaters, overalls, stockings, etc. We have given 931 garments to the Voluntary Relief Organization, 332 garments to the Catholic Charities, in addition to 400 yards of materials; 208 garments to the Public Health Nurse at Saugerties, and 50 garments to the Welfare Board of Highland. Have also sent many garments to Woodstock, Rosendale, Lomontville, and other outlying districts where individual cases were reported. The sewing has been carried on in the work room at 260 Fair street and in many homes, as well as in various small communities throughout the county as stated in our last report, and we wish to again thank each and every one who has assisted in any way and we trust when we are called upon to take up this sewing toward late, that we may count upon the loyalty of the ladies who have given so generously of their time.

The work room will be closed for the present as our supply of materials is about exhausted, but we will continue to give out the few remaining garments as long as they last.

CHAIRMAN: W. TAPEN, Ulster Co. Chapter American Red Cross.

Railwaymen Have Thrills and Many Narrow Escapes

Railwaymen have their share of thrills. Sometimes only a second made between disaster and preventing an accident. Some time ago on a railway line not far from Leeds a heavy tractor engine stopped in the center of a level crossing. The signals were set for a fast freight express, and three men, the driver, and two rail trackmen, had a frantic and terrifying minute and a half before the reluctant road roller could be coaxed clear of the metals. Had the express hit such a solid mass disaster would certainly have occurred.

On another occasion, when a train struck a motor vehicle of some make near Harrogate, the train rushed on carrying with it several miles of coiled ribbon which caught alight from the burning of the petrol tank of the van. In a few seconds sheets of flame shot up all around the startled passengers in the train, but the express was brought safely to a stop and the fire extinguished without loss of life.

Another thrill which occurs in the railway world happens at times in the handling of high explosives, and the transport of inflammable materials such as petrol and spirits.—Montreal Herald.

Says Pneumonia May Be Called Friend of Aged

Certain acute or subacute inflammations in the lungs are called pneumonia, says Ohio Health News. This is a general term and does not mean a specific disease. It may be caused by any one of a number of germs which gain entrance into the lung and find conditions suitable for growth. It is a frequent complication of measles, influenza, whooping cough, typhoid fever and other infections, and often closes the scene in chronic heart diseases, pulmonary tuberculosis, bright's disease and diabetes. There is a marked incidence at both extremes of life; in children under six years of age and, quoting Oster: "Pneumonia may well be called the friend of the aged. Taken off by it in an acute, short, not often painful illness, the old escape those cold gradations of decay that make the last stage of all so distressing."

Cashew Nuts Grow on Trees

So-called cashew nuts grow on a large evergreen tree native to tropical America and naturalized in nearly all warm countries. Many people suppose they grow in the ground because, in general size and shape, they resemble peanuts. The cashew nut was practically unknown in the United States a few years ago. In reality it is not a nut at all. It is the kidney-shaped seed attached outside to the lower end of the cashew apple, which is the pear-shaped, fleshy, edible fruit borne in clusters on the cashew tree. The nut is edible only after the caustic oil known as cardol has been expelled from the shell by roasting. Cashew is pronounced ka-shoo, with the second syllable accented.

Proof That Fish Sleep

The fact that your goldfish do not close their eyes is no proof that they never sleep. The reason of this is that they have no eyelids—hence their eyes are permanently open. But experiments made in the aquarium at the London zoo prove that fish sleep; some rest on the bottom of their tanks, others are suspended mid-water, while others still lie quite close to the surface. Just as in the case of human beings, hunger will keep fish awake. Thus we hear of successful angling feats after dark.—Answers.

Deportation Provision

Under construction of the immigration statutes an alien who entered this country prior to July 1, 1924, cannot be deported if he has resided continuously in this country for five years, unless during that time he has been twice convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude, for which he was sentenced to a term of more than a year. If the wife can prove legal entry, she can become naturalized. No alien who entered the country illegally on or after June 3, 1921, can become naturalized in the United States.

As She Is Spoke

The English Alpine visitor was met in the lounge of the hotel by a Frenchman. "Ah," exclaimed the latter, "I've heard about you. You climbed the Matterhorn. That is a foot to be proud of."

The Englishman laughed. "Pardon me, sir," he said, "you mean 'feet' do you not?"

"Ah," said the Frenchman, greatly excited, "so you climbed it more than once, eh?"—London Answers.

Treasurer Rice Receives $89,926

School treasurers and trustees throughout Ulster county will be gratified to learn that County Treasurer Arthur Rice has just received a check in the amount of $89,926.17, being the first installment of public school monies due districts of the county outside of the city of Kingston. The county treasurer has not yet received from the district superintendents' statements of the amounts to be paid to each district. When these have been received checks will be sent out. The payment just received represents one-half of the total allotment after deducting $47,351.58 for teachers' retirement.

The first payment of public school money was received at the county treasurer's office on February 11 last year and for three weeks past the office has been kept busy answering inquiries from district treasurers who had based their plans on the presumption that there would be like prompt payment this year.

Beautiful Musical Service at St. John's

On Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, there was a beautiful Lenten musical service given at St. John's Episcopal Church by the organist and choir-master, Robert Williams, the members of the vested choir, and a guest soloist. The soloist was young Albert Andrews, tenor of Newburgh, president of the Newburgh Free Academy Glee Club. Young Andrews sang very admirably Gounod's "Ave and Be Still." The choir and organ numbers were very fine, too.

Rev. Kemper Back.

The congregation of St. John's Church was very happy on Sunday to have its pastor, the Rev. W. Poyntell Kemper, back at both the 8 o'clock and the 10:45 o'clock services, even though he was obliged to use his crutches. It is understood that he endured the experience without harm, so it was a day of happiness both to him and his people.
